

THE CASH BOX

Secretary Carlisle Sees It Growing Lighter Every Day.
Customs Receipts Never So Low Since the Days of War.

How the Financial Depression Is Affecting Government Business.

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS EXCEEDING CUSTOMS RETURNS.

Pensions amount to nearly two and one-half millions for the current month—Senator Cullom of Illinois introduces a bill repealing all laws creating the sinking fund—Senators Morgan and Voorhees have a tilt, and the former's resolution for a select joint committee on finance is sent to the calendar—The House Committee on Rules is defeated.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6.—Government receipts are still running low this month. The receipts from customs yesterday, $79,000, were the lowest for any one day since war times. The total revenues for the six days of this month aggregate only $500,000, or only about $600,000, while the expenditures foot up $4,000,000, or more than $800,000 per day. Because the expenditures continue to exceed the receipts, the Treasury balance, which on Sept. 1, including the gold reserve, was $107,000,000, has declined to $105,500,000.

A pointed reduction is noticed in customs receipts, while internal revenue receipts exceed them, something unusual, in the aggregate $1,575,000. For the fiscal year up to today the receipts from internal revenue are only $1,500,000 less than custom receipts.

In round figures the expenditures of the United States for the fiscal year to date exceed the receipts $19,000,000, and this excess has been drawn on the available cash balance of the Treasury.

As usual, the largest single item of expense continues to be pensions, the payments on this account this month so far being $2,400,000.

When the Senate met today Mr. Cullom (Rep.) of Illinois introduced a bill, which was referred to the Finance Committee, to repeal all acts providing for the creation or maintenance of the sinking fund.

Resolutions were reported from the Committee on Privileges and Elections granting $2,500 each to John B. Allen of Washington, Lee Mantle of Montana and A. C. Beckwith of Wyoming, for their time and expense in prosecuting their claims to seats in the Senate. The resolutions were referred to the committee on Contingent Expenses.

The Vice-President at 12:25 p. m. laid before the Senate the resolution of Mr. Voorhees, changing the hour of the meeting of the Senate to 11 o'clock. Mr. Voorhees said: "After full and careful consultation with the friends on this side of the chamber, of the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act, and in whose judgment I have been accustomed to confide, and whose wishes I cannot disregard, I will ask that the resolution go over for the present, believing that if we occasionally move the bill, we can make as much speed, perhaps, as by its adoption until at least a later day."

The resolution was therefore laid over.

When the resolution of Mr. Morgan (Dem.) of Alabama, providing for a joint select committee, was laid before the Senate, Mr. Voorhees gave notice that he would introduce a bill to repeal the Sherman act, and that he would refer it to the Finance Committee.

A sharp debate occurred between Mr. Voorhees and Mr. Morgan as to the right of the latter to occupy the floor. Mr. Morgan asked if the rights had been changed during his absence, and when informed by the chair that they had not, he proceeded to address the Senate in support of his resolution.

Mr. Morgan claimed his right at ten minutes to 2. Mr. Voorhees then moved to take up the repeal bill. Objection to that motion was made by Mr. Morgan. Mr. Harris and others, as being an unfair way of displaying the resolution. After some colloquy the resolution was taken on. Yeas, 87; nays, 21.

The repeal bill came up. Whether justified or not, the opponents in the Senate of the resolution, appeared, and the events in the past few days have been in their favor. The action of Senator Voorhees this morning in withdrawing temporarily his resolution for 11 o'clock sessions, following as closely as it did upon the success of the repeal opponents in forcing adjournment yesterday afternoon is considered as somewhat encouraging by the silver men. They do not actually claim that these events are of any importance as indicating the final result, but they are hopeful.

ADVOCATES OF DUTY RETENTIONS.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 6.—When the Committee on Ways and Means resumed its session this morning W. O. Whitcomb of the Whitcomb Metallurgical Co. of Birmingham, Conn., and John Day and W. H. Keadell, representatives of H. L. Judd & Co. of New York, manufacturers of bedsteads and upturned arguments in favor of the retention of the present duties on the above-mentioned articles and a decision in favor of the retention of the raw materials entering into them.

Mr. Whitcomb stated that he was formerly a manufacturer of bedsteads and had decided to plant a plan in this country, had decided to build four factory buildings, and had a solid foothold. He declared that his company was able to sell goods at from 10 to 20 per cent less than when he was an importer.

A DIPLOMATIC TRAVELER.
BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 6.—It is reported here that Dr. A. De Claparede, Swiss Minister to the United States, will be transferred to Vienna to replace A. O. Aspl, Swiss Minister to Austria-Hungary. As Dr. De Claparede is a member of the Arbitration Tribunal, which will adjudge the pending dispute between the United States and Chile, the change will not be made before the close of the arbitration proceedings.

THE PRESIDENT'S NOMINATIONS.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The President today sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Senior—Charles H. Dickinson of Louisiana to be collector of Louisiana.
War—First Lieut. James A. Irons, 20th Infantry, to be captain; First Lieut. Frank Del Carrington, 1st Infantry, to be captain; Second Lieut. Edward M. Lears, 11th Infantry, to be first lieutenant; Second Lieut. Richard C. Croston, 1st Infantry, to be first lieutenant.

RULES COMMITTEE DEFEATED.

THE 100 QUORUM RULE FOR THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE ABANDONED.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Committee on Rules presided over by Speaker Crisp was this morning forced to publicly acknowledge its defeat in the House in the effort to lead the Democratic majority and secure the adoption of the rule making 100 members a quorum of the Committee of the Whole.

When the House adjourned last night the debate on the rule was still in progress. The rule which the committee on Rules had decided to abandon, in deference to the objection of some of the prominent Democratic leaders, the rule upon which debate was pending, when the House adjourned last night, was the rule making 100 members a quorum of the committee of the whole.

Mr. Carlisle, in explaining the change of rule made by the committee on Rules, said that so many members on the Democratic side had expressed their opposition to the change in the size of the quorum in the committee of the whole that the Rules Committee had decided to change the quorum to a majority of the House. Although Mr. Carlisle stated that the committee had decided to change the quorum to a majority of the House, he distinctly understood that the committee still believed the proposed change was in the interest of the House, and that the committee was not a party to the change of the rule. He said that the committee was not a party to the change of the rule, and that the committee was not a party to the change of the rule.

Mr. Carlisle's statement precipitated a general debate of a very lively and entertaining character, participated in by the Democrats and some of their friends. The Republican from Iowa, took the floor, saying that he was just about to make a speech in favor of the position from which the committee on Rules had just announced. The intention of retreat, he said, was to make the committee on Rules a laughing stock. The Democratic from Iowa, said that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong, and that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong.

Mr. Carlisle, in reply, said that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong, and that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong. He said that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong, and that the committee on Rules had been in the wrong.

CONGRESSIONAL GOSSIP.

The Federal Election Laws to Be Attacked—Capitalist's Intentions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—As soon as the House has disposed of its rules the Democratic members will begin their long-promised attack on the federal election laws, and when the bill for this repeal has passed the House it will in all probability be pushed to the Senate. The change as the Republican members will permit.

President Cleveland, it is stated, has given assurance that he will promptly sign such a bill. He is reported to be in a favorable mood of mind, and he is reported to be in a favorable mood of mind.

The committee thereupon recommended the passage of the bill and it was favorably reported. It is probable that the measure will pass the House. The measure will pass the House, and it will pass the House.

THE DAMAGE TO THE LIGHT-HOUSE SYSTEM.
Along the Southern coast was so serious a late week's hurricane that it is probable the light-house board will have to ask Congress for a special appropriation to make the necessary repairs.

Reports received at the Treasury Department show that nearly all the light along the Southern coast is in a state of disrepair, and while it was small in some cases, on the whole the system received such a blow that it cannot be well repaired without special appropriation. Reports have not been received from some of the remote stations, but it is believed that the damage to the lights, except those near Charleston, have sustained damage.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND AND SECRETARY LAMONT
Have been considering, it is said, the advisability of transferring Assistant Secretary McCleod of the navy to the War Department. Mr. McCleod is a member of the War Department, and he is a member of the War Department.

OFFICE-SEEKERS ARE POURING INTO WASHINGTON
Just now from every part of the country. Just why they should invade the capital at this particular time is a matter hard to explain. There is always a large number of them, and they are always there. They are always there, and they are always there.

After adjournment the male part of them thronged the lobbies of every hotel on the avenue. The ladies, too, were there. The return of the President is supposed to have something to do with it. The return of the President is supposed to have something to do with it.

PRESIDENT MASTER OF THE COLUMBIAN IRON WORKS
Was in the city today to see Secretary Herbert regarding the payment of about $15,000, which was retained by the department and Mr. Maister appealed to have the penalty remitted on the ground that the changes directed prevented the vessel being finished on time. The vessel was many months overdue in completion. The Secretary has taken the matter under consideration. Secretary Herbert has remitted the tax-pierced term of sentence of suspension in the case of Assistant Paymaster Thomas J. Cowley, who was found guilty last October of conduct unbecoming an officer of the army and ordered to be suspended from duty for a period of five years and to retain his present number on the list of passed assistant paymasters.

SPEAKER CRISP IS A FREQUENT CALLER AT THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.
Two or three times a week since the extra session opened it has been his custom to drop in on Secretary Crisp to ascertain how the changing conditions of the monetary situation and to communicate to Mr. Cleveland's financial mind the views of the Speaker. Neither the Speaker nor Mr. Carlisle had attached any great significance to these visits. They were merely, when they have found time, to enter the Treasury Building, and Mr. Carlisle does not conceal the annoyance which the frequent interruptions of his duties cause him. So far from intending to hold any momentous conference for the development of new lines of policy on the part of the government, Mr. Carlisle, it is said, had quite forgotten that he had an appointment with Speaker Crisp.

Warner on the day in question in point of fact he had invited Secretary Crisp and some of his friends to take lunch with him at the hour named, and only at the last moment had he been informed of the Speaker's intention. He had been informed of the Speaker's intention, and he had been informed of the Speaker's intention.

THE THREE ROBBERS BOARDED THE TRAIN AT CHELSEA.
The St. Louis & San Francisco passenger train No. 8, which left this city at 8:30 last night, was stopped at a point known as the "sand cut," two miles east of Pacific, by train robbers. Three men were engaged in the attempted robbery. James M. Penneck, an ex-employee of the railroad, was captured near the spot shortly after the robbery with two loaded revolvers in his possession and is partially identified by the engineer of the train as one of the robbers. No plunder was secured, owing to the fact that the local safe was empty, and the bandits failed in their attempt to blow the through safe with dynamite.

The attempt was a particularly bold one, and it was more through accident than anything else that no money or valuables were secured. The men implicated in the attempt showed no disposition to shed blood, if such a course could be avoided, but their conduct, emphasized at the muzzles of their volvers, were delivered in such a manner as to lead to the supposition that they would brook no interference. The passengers were not molested, the approach of a freight train and the imminent danger of rear and collision caused them to stop and ordered the engineer to stop.

James M. Penneck, a brakeman on the line, not to shoot. Penneck then claimed that the robbers were train robbers. His account of being in the neighborhood was not considered satisfactory and the party proceeded on to Pacific in time to meet a posse under the town marshal going to the scene.

Penneck, who lives at 1847 Tower Grove avenue, claimed that he was stealing a ride to Sullivan, Mo., and that he was in the neighborhood when the robbery occurred. He stated that when the shooting occurred he was between the baggage and mail cars becoming frightened, jumped from the train and ran toward the Pacific tracks. No stock is taken in this story on account of Penneck's being a brakeman in the employ of the road, and he has desired to ride to Sullivan, Mo., and that he was in the caboose of No. 8, the fast freight, which left a few minutes after the robbery. When asked by the conductor of the passenger why he was not in the caboose, Penneck stated that he was not in the caboose, and that he was not in the caboose.

Engineer Weekly said that Penneck was the big man who climbed over the caboose and that he was the one who was in the caboose. When the party with Penneck reached Pacific they found that the four men who were on the train had been taken to the jail. The robbers boarded the train at Chelseaham—The Express Car a Bad Wreck.

RIOTING AT CLEVELAND.

Sewer Diggers at War With Each Other and the Police.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 6.—Trouble broke out afresh this morning among the sewer diggers and the Bohemians, Hungarians, Poles and others who began rioting yesterday afternoon. Early this morning they planted an American flag in the middle of Holston street and swore to stand together and permit no man to enter the sewer. At 7 o'clock the mob had congregated at the scene of yesterday's trouble and when the men who had gone out with their picks and shovels to resume operations, began to arrive, the danger of another riot became imminent. Without waiting for hostilities to begin the police were ordered to charge upon the mob. The men resisted the officers and several of them were severely clubbed before they could be subdued. Further trouble is momentarily expected.

SMALL PROGRESS MADE IN THE WORK FOR WAGE-EARNERS' INTERESTS.

Reasons for the Failure Given by the President—Effects of the Coal Strike Felt in England—Disorders Fanned and Troops Summoned—A Convulsion Called by French Socialists.

MONTREAL, Sept. 6.—The ninth annual session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada opened yesterday. President C. B. Bales, in his annual address, congratulated the congress over the strides made abroad towards the reforms necessary to the happiness and contentment of the people, but regretted the small progress made in Canada to the same end. He said the chief cause of this was the exodus to the American Republic. He opened the delegates to make every effort to infuse new vitality into their grand humanitarian movement, and commanded the congress to give its most serious consideration to any action that would tend to harmonize an alliance with farmers and city artisans. He also recommended the removal of the present regulation requiring three days' notice of withdrawal of deposits in Government savings banks, and the removal of this rule would tend to divert the current of savings from private to government banks.

The Treasurer's report shows the financial condition of the congress in a satisfactory condition. He reported that during the past session of Parliament nothing of importance to labor interests had been accomplished.

"RADIANT HOME"

"RADIANT HOME" Base Burners have gained a world-wide reputation on account of consuming one-third less fuel than any other hard coal stove on the market. They will keep fire for three days without being looked after. Have sold over 8,550 "RADIANT HOMES" in St. Louis, and we refer to every one in use. They are powerful heaters, durable and handsome, and no consumer will buy any other make of hard coal stoves after discovering the real merits of this wonderful stove.

The public library is now practically closed and will not be reopened for several weeks. Preparations are being made for the removal of the library to its new quarters in the City Hall building. The transfer will require considerable time, and while it is in progress no books will be permitted to be taken out of the library. Notice has been given by librarians standing guard to the people or the American contingent. The formal address of the session was then delivered by Prof. Rafael Lavista, M. may Go to Jail in Obedience to the Vote of Their Constituents.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 6.—The Judges of the United States Court, so long imprisoned in the Jail in this city for contempt of the United States Court in refusing to order a tax levy against William J. Bradley, a prominent business man, have been notified by the United States Marshal that while the present form of administration may be left to legislation, the indispensable form is that it shall be national, have a voice in the national councils, that it shall have independent executive departments, and that it shall be interested in educated and experienced medical men, who are also competent to assume its responsibilities.

The resolution was referred to the National to issue railroad bonds, and released pending a vote in St. Clair County on a compromise proposition, returned to this city last night. The bond proposition was defeated some years ago, and as they were only out on parole pending the election they came to report to Judge Phillips. Judges Coonahan and Evans went opposite to the jail, but Judge Nevitt stopped at a hotel for the night. They may be committed to some other jail on account of too lenient treatment here.

Weather forecast until Thursday evening.
For Missouri: Generally fair; south to southwest winds.
The weather is generally fair with the exception of the lower Mississippi Valley and Gulf coast.
Cooler weather is reported from the Lake region and warmer from Minnesota; elsewhere the changes in temperature are slight.
At St. Louis: Fair, slightly warmer till Thursday night.

The Exposition opens to-night.

TWO MORE IMMORTAL NAMES: Sand Cut and Mound Valley.

THE bonds of Imperial Missouri would make any State bank currency safe.

LIBERTY TOTTEN is recovering, but Senator Peffer is still in a very bad way.

DR. BORD'S shotgun suggests the best solution of the train robbery question.

HOW HIGH would the McKinley kite have soared with a free-coinage bill for a tail?

IT IS lucky that Mr. Harrison's Administration did not get away with the seigniorage as well as the surplus.

EIGHT per cent duty on Portland cement makes costly pavement, but efforts are made for a retention of the tax.

ST. LOUIS has conducted a successful exposition nine years. It is not so hard to manage a big show in a really good show town.

DO NOT fall to go to the Exposition on the opening night. It surpasses any display of the kind ever before seen in St. Louis.

IF our statement had the power of condensation, what statement they would be! Behold the word waste of the silver debate.

WOULD Boss Butler disdain to take garbage from any sort of pail if his pay depended on it or there was anything in it for him?

BEN HARRISON has been weeping with the veterans at Indianapolis. What chance has William McKinley or Thomas Brackett Reed now?

A passenger with a shotgun can capture a train robber with two revolvers, what could not a guard armed with Winchester do?

THE Exposition will get its usual boom start to-night, but St. Louisans should make it a point to see the boom. The opening night is St. Louis Night.

PHILANTHROPIST BUTLER will doubtless be drawing money from the city long after most of us have passed away. What he has already got is but a drop in the slop bucket.

ATTY-GEN. OLNEY'S attention is respectfully called to the recent acquisition of the iron mines of Lake Superior by the Standard Oil syndicate. The people are getting restive under these encroachments.

IT might be supposed that the cannibals would select tender meat than a man 52 years of age, but the epicures who are alleged to have partaken of poor Emin may not have been so particular as some of their kind.

TWELVE mills and factories in the United States, which shut down on account of hard times a few weeks ago, resumed work yesterday. Confidence is coming back with the assurance of the repeal of the Sherman law.

ACTION along legal lines is the policy which Gov. Altgeld counsels. When labor organizations come to admit the wisdom of this without reservation they will have won the first and perhaps the last battle for economic freedom.

THERE were several breaks in the line of march of the G. A. R. parade yesterday. The old soldiers cannot march as well as they once did. Their eyes are bad and their legs are getting shaky. The gaps in the ranks grow wider and their steps less firm every year.

THE silver jargon in the Senate should not ignore the distinction between discussion and obstruction. The one is a necessary condition of free government, while the other serves no other purpose than to enable an interested minority to defeat the popular will.

THE greatest of permanent Expositions will open to-night. Gov. Stone and Mayor Walbridge will lend official dignity to the inauguration of the season and to the first of a series of delightful programmes, in which the famous Sousa and his splendid band will be a leading feature.

IT seems so easy to rob railway trains that it is remarkable that so many of them are allowed to go on unmolested. No resistance whatever is made, and the robbers have only to proceed as they would in any ordinary undertaking. A burglar entering a house is in imminent peril compared with the rogue who climbs over the tender.

THE New York authorities have taken steps to give prominence and influence to a harmless crank. They have had Emma Goldman arrested and indicted for "unlawful assemblage." With the grievance of arrest and punishment for silly speeches to howl about the Goldman woman will have some chance of inciting an ignorant mob to riot.

IF the Baltimore claim agents are playing no game in handling the mail of pensioners their excitement over the action of the Post-office Department in instituting an investigation is not easily accounted for. If they are dealing honorably with the veterans and the Government they should be only too happy to have light thrown upon their methods.

DEMOCRATIC DUTY.

IF proof is needed that the Democrats who are fighting the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law are defending a Republican protection bargain, it is fully supplied by the story of the way in which the measure was forced upon the Republican leaders by the representatives of silver mining.

The testimony of the striking of the bargain is credited to Senator Jones of Nevada. The proposition to purchase silver to the amount of 4,500,000 ounces a month was flatly rejected in conference committee until Senator Jones threatened to kill the McKinley bill with silver votes, which brought the tariff protectionists to the terms of the silver protectionists and the bargain by which the people's interests were sacrificed to the greed of special interests was struck.

That Democratic Senators pledged to destroy protection should join in a conspiracy to compel the country to suffer the ravages of one of the monsters created by this villainous protection alliance is a remarkable and disgraceful surrender of principle.

There is not a shadow of excuse for Democratic opposition to repeal now. The vote in the House and the known attitude of a majority of the Senate render the opposition mere obstruction of the popular will.

With the repeal of the Sherman law and the adoption of the reported suggestion of the President for the coinage of the Treasury bullion the country will be safe from the danger of deficiency or currency contraction until Congress can find a way to redeem the Democratic pledge to give us honest bimetalism.

To vote for repeal in the shortest possible time is the first duty of Democratic Senators.

THE GRAVES CASE.

The case of Dr. T. Thatcher Graves represents either an instance of fiendish injustice or a curious study of human nature.

If a moiety of the charges made in the doctor's farewell letters against the administration of justice in Denver and against Prosecuting Attorney Stevens is true the one is a grotesque and abominable travesty and the other a devil in human shape. On the other hand, if they are false and Dr. Graves was guilty of the murder of Mrs. Barnaby his conduct presents an interesting but repulsive view of human nature.

Although the conviction in court and the evidence afford strong presumption of guilt, there is room for speculation as to whether the suicide and the final statement of Graves support the theory of guilt or innocence. On the one side it may be urged that an innocent man would not commit suicide, but, strong in the consciousness of rectitude, in hope and desire for vindication, would fight on to the end; that the act of suicide was confession and the final statement the attempt to win post mortem sympathy, give his reputation the benefit of sustained hypocrisy and obtain revenge.

But it may be urged with reason that the spirit of an innocent man may be broken by overwhelming persecution. Dr. Graves had spent all of his money in the first trial, and had another to fight with increased odds against him and without means. It is a plausible supposition that, hopeless of winning, he believed he could vindicate his reputation by an oath sealed with death. There is a strong inclination to believe that the most infamous villain shrinks from going to death with the crime of perjury fresh on his soul.

The truth is, the reasons on each side fairly balance each other. There is nothing improbable in the suicide of an innocent man under such circumstances, nor is there good reason to believe that a wretch guilty of assassinating a friend in the most cowardly manner would shrink from perjury and hypocrisy in the face of death.

If Graves was innocent his case is a pitiable instance of cruelty and injustice. If he was guilty it is merely a glimpse of hell, the effect of which is heightened by one redeeming trait and act—the trace of abandoned virtue and the hint of a lost paradise—his love and solicitude care for his wife.

VINDICATION NECESSARY.

The evidence so far submitted to the Police Board concerning the Maloney killing makes a black case against Patrolman Lyons. It indicates that Lyons was under the influence of liquor when he shot Maloney, that the shooting was entirely unwarranted, that Lyons was the aggressor, that although charged with the duty of arresting immoral women plying their vocation on the streets, he associated with them, drank with them and accompanied one to a disreputable house.

Unless this testimony is refuted the discharge of Lyons from the police force and his trial on a charge of murder are imperative, but these proceedings do not exhaust the necessities of the case. Lyons was exonerated by the Coroner's jury. How did it happen that none of the overwhelming evidence against Lyons submitted in the Police Board trial found its way into the Coroner's office? Was it the fault of the Coroner or of the Police Department? This point must be settled.

It has been freely charged that certain patrolmen used their power and influence to suppress testimony against Lyons by threats and persuasion. This charge is supported by inference at least in the testimony. The transfer of certain patrolmen from Lyons' district to another district was a preliminary step to the investigation of the case and the trial of Lyons by the Police Commissioners.

The use of the police power to suppress testimony and defeat the ends of justice is one of the worst offenses against good government. The shielding of guilty officials in any manner is intolerable.

Chief Harrigan and the Police Commissioners have an imperative duty to perform in this matter. They must sift the charges to the bottom and vindicate the Police Department by proof of innocence or the punishment of the guilty.

MR. SATOLLI'S ADDRESS.

The address of the papal delegate, Mgr. Satolli, at the Catholic Congress is likely to become historic. It is an eloquent and forceful plea for justice in social relations and for a resolute adherence to right in human affairs. Denominational differences disappear in face of this plea for a common Christian principle—a principle recognized as the base of all morality by Catholic and Protestant alike.

The Archbishop acknowledges in this address the uses of liberty as an agency in the moral emancipation and elevation of the race. "In the name of Leo XIII.," said he, "I salute the great American Republic, and I call upon the Catholics of America to go forward, in one hand bearing the book of Christian truth and in the other the Constitution of the United States." There is nothing equivocal in this. Protestants and Catholics may well take it to heart and accept it as a guide in political and social action.

The address abounds in wise counsel which indicates a thorough understanding of the needs of the hour, the problems of liberty and the great opportunity afforded for the solution of vexed questions by American institutions. It all revolves about the conception of justice. "Justice," says the Archbishop, "is before all." "This must not be a world of slavery where the multitude live only for the benefit of the few." And in the conditions created and guaranteed by the constitution are the means for realizing this ideal.

The sentiment of this address will be heartily echoed by all Americans. It will go far to reassure the public mind and quiet apprehension concerning the purposes of the delegate and the significance of his mission. There is no hint of political action or ambition. Only justice and mercy as the ends of religion and morality seem to be in the delegate's mind.

FOLLOWING close upon a suggestion by a New York evening newspaper there come reports of Eastern banks refusing accommodations to their Western and Southern correspondents because of the course of Western and Southern Senators and representatives on the silver question. The latest example is that mentioned by Senator Vance of North Carolina, who produced proof of such refusals in the Senate. The banks cannot choose a better way to "get themselves disliked." They cannot more surely intensify the popular feeling against them and invoke a whirlwind of public displeasure. They may be right in their contention, but that is not the question. Right or wrong, the people will not tolerate any coercion from banks in politics and will make it warm for any institution which undertakes to prevent a free vote in Congress.

AN attempt to sell a valuable street railway franchise running fifty years in New Orleans yesterday broke down because there was only one bidder, he representing the syndicate already in control of the road. It is much to be feared that this mode of getting the public values of these franchises will not work. There is no way to prevent combination or collusion. The only other expedient is a tax on gross earnings which shall absorb all of the public value, or outright municipal ownership. This is the situation in New York and other large cities where the people seem to be at the mercy of monopolists who have taken the wind out of the auction plan.

THE Collector took in $300,000 for taxes yesterday, of which $238,000 was in currency. This well illustrates the curious condition of affairs in this country. All this money, which might have been in the banks earning more money and serving as a basis for legitimate business enterprise, was locked up in safety deposits, where it was kept free from harm and free from good. But the tide has turned, happily. Both banks and people are recovering confidence, and it will not be many weeks before the currents of business will run with all their wonted force.

WHEN the feminine owner of a vicious dog in Brooklyn learned that it was to be killed, she sobbingly broke out in court: "I love him better than my life, and if you take him from me it will kill me! He is not guilty and should not die! I will pay for the best physician in New York or Brooklyn to examine the boy, and if he has been bitten to attend to him. I will pay his expenses at the Pasteur Institute! Only save my Fido!" The boy, who had suffered from the bite, did not seem to excite the lady's sympathy in the least. Being only a human being he was probably not entitled to it. The dog was killed, and it is safe to say that if hydrophobia should develop in the boy, Fido's mistress will not go looking up doctors to attend him in his last moments.

WE have our train robbers in the West, but in the East they would be considered rather slow. When the dead of the Long Island Railroad disaster were yet warm thieves rifled their clothing, broke ear-rings from their ears, wrenched jewels from their fingers, and turned their pockets inside out.

BARTHOLOMEW's statue of "Liberty" looks in rainy weather, and Mr. Bartholomew suggests that it should have a coat of varnish under a coating of bronze. Perhaps our Twelfth street goddess would like a little varnish before the autumn rainfall begins.

Nor one of last night's train robbers wore a straw hat. This fact, however, is merely circumstantial. Nobody supposes that any of the list of September crowd at the Merchants' Exchange had anything to do with the hold-up.

ONLY 1,000 of the 10,000 Chicago clamorers accepted city work when it was surrendered to the riot. It will not be a matter of great difficulty for the nation to protect its real workers.

THERE is some surprise that a man suspected of train robbery should have surrendered to a doctor. But it is not a doctor with a gun a doubly deadly person?

TO Increase Our Trade.

From the New York World.

Senator Sherman says: "We ought to encourage in every possible way the exportation of our products, although I cannot see precisely how it can be done."

Two or three ways of increasing our foreign trade ought to be obvious.

It is an old saying that "those who want friends must show themselves friendly." If we want more trade we must show a disposition to trade on fair terms. No nation in Europe will buy of us if it can get what it wants elsewhere on anything like as favorable terms. This disposition has been created by our hostile tariff laws, which were avowedly framed to keep out foreign products.

It takes two to trade. Commerce between countries is based on mutual advantage in the exchange of commodities. How can we expect to "increase the exportation of our products," except as foreign nations meet our needs, while we raise high the barriers to their products? The answer is plain. "Commerce is war"—that trade must be like a gun handle, "all on one side!"

One other way to increase our exports is to untax the raw materials of our manufacturers, placing them on equal terms with their foreign competitors as to the cost of production. Unshackled commerce and it will take care of itself.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

[No matter written on both sides of the sheet can appear under this head.—Ed.]

The Slop King's Way.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I have read several times the notice in your paper advising the citizens of St. Louis to help Ed Butler, the garbage contractor, to keep the city in a sanitary condition, provide proper garbage pails, etc. I am and have been most willing to assist him in this good work, but for some reason unknown to me, he is not willing to help himself. I have offered to give him a royal warrant in the ideal pail, which I am informed meets with all the requirements of the city ordinance. My servant girl says that she has repeatedly requested the gentleman who drives the cart through our alley to remove the contents of our pail. He refused to do so, saying he had his orders not to take the garbage from that pail.

My servant then emptied the stuff out, put it into another bucket and the cart driver kindly dumped it into his wagon; this was done by my servant after our bucket (which is metal and water tight) was full to overflowing. I am a property owner and health that if the garbage is not taken from the alley into the cart, it will be a matter of great difficulty for the nation to protect its real workers.

THE WHAT-NOT CORNER.

HERE'S SOMETHING NEW.

Summer Girls Are Abroad in Black Canvas Gowns.

Black canvas gowns are among the latest novelties. One which is striking in its design has the skirt made in box plaits and trimmed round the bottom with three rows of white ribbon velvet. The skirt is made of canvas which encircles the yoke back and front. It is trimmed with the white velvet and the bands of the velvet are seen in perpendicular stripes on the yoke.

The leg to mutton sleeves is simply itself. It is made of the canvas and finished at the wrist with two demure little ruffles of white velvet.

The Rock-a-By Lady.

From the Chicago Record.
The Rock-a-By Lady from Hushaby street (Was singing, come singing)
The poppies they hang from her head by her feet,
And the white and fast the stream come
Of poppies that bang and tip the tops that hum,
And a tramp that blows.

And dolly peep out of those wee little dreams
And boasts go floating on silvery streams,
And the peep-a-boo with their own misty gleams,
And up, up and up, where the Mother Moon beams,
The fairies have wakened to wafting of the daisies in an under whisper.

Would you dream all these dreams that are tiny and sweet?
They'll come to you sleeping.
So, shut the two eyes that are weary, my sweet,
For the Rock-a-By Lady from Hushaby street,
With poppies that bang from her head by her feet,
Come singing, come singing.

He Went Away.

From the Washington Star.
"My friend," he said to the hotel clerk,
"I'm a purty timid man. Couldn't you gimme a room with a fire escape to it? You've got one, haven't you?"
"Oh, yes," replied the clerk. "And I might remark that except in case of fire we keep the building chained at the bottom of it."

And the weary stranger took a toothpick and sauntered forth.

IDY'S LOVER.

THE BOOM-HOUSE MAN MET HIM FIFTEEN YEARS AFTER.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.
What appeals to me as my most interesting experience as a writer occurred a winter or two ago in a little lumber hamlet of the hill region of Kentucky. For a moment, at least, it was quite thrilling—rather too thrilling, indeed, to be useful as material to me, with my strait and simple art standards. I have a groveling tendency for representing only the usual features of life, and this little episode, though it was pitifully commonplace in its setting, had about it something that was not only unusual but nearly sublime.

I had gone down to the village in question with ambitious design of seeing a "wintery" in the river. These are peculiar to the river. They are useful to lumbermen and incidentally to writers, but they have their unpleasant features. My little hill hamlet, having dotted its scene with a row of log cabins, had seen the air. The inn seemed to be saturated, and the roar of the river on the skirts of the town corroborated the inn-keeper's assurance concerning the magnitude of the special "tide" which was in progress.

"She's booming for all that's in her," declared the inn-keeper, an elderly man, who had enjoyed, during the previous summer, the happy privilege of being useful to me in many ways. "The look for the boom to bust to-night. Thousands of dollars' worth of timber will be rafted down."

You see that man by the stove? He's one of the big timber fellers from up North. Just come down. He'll lose heavy if he busts. Say, take a look at that feller! You remember him? About those boom-house man's daughter? Well, that feller—he was the man—he was Idy's beau."

THE ENDOWMENT COMPANIES.

Remnants of Cash in the Hands of Defunct Concerns' Receivers.

Boston, Sept. 6.—An interesting account has been filed in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court. It was the report of C. C. Bumpus, recently appointed by the court as special master to examine the situation of the several endowment corporations now being closed up, confor with the provisions of the same and report to the court a plan for an immediate dividend.

Judge Bumpus finds that there are now un-distributed assets belonging to these corporations which amount in value, estimation, bonds, etc., at par, to over $1,800,000, of which $600,000, consisting of first-class bonds, mortgages and a few shares of stock, are in the hands of the State Treasurer. The receivers have some $100,000 of bonds, mortgages and stock, and the remaining $600,000 is in the hands of the State Treasurer. The receivers are now converting the cash into real estate and are recommending that they be put at once on the market as rapidly as possible, as in his opinion that is the most feasible course.

We make suits to order for $35, for which we ought to have $45.

May be you have not looked into our Broadway window display of fall and winter suitings.

COTTON IN THE SOUTH.

It Is Worth Money and the Planters

Have Lots of It.

New York, Sept. 6.—Announcement that all the banks in Memphis, Tenn., had been closed by their New York connections that they were prepared to ship all the money necessary to move the cotton crop caused comparatively little comment in the trade.

Vice-President Anderson Gratz of the American Manufacturing Co., which supplies 60 per cent of all the bagging used for cotton in this country, in discussing the outlook, said:

"In the Memphis section there have just begun to move the cotton. In the South, Georgia and Texas appear to be ready to move the product two weeks ago. I think the financial stringency has been felt less in the South than anywhere else. We have every confidence in our customers and are taking their notes freely. The cotton growers are well off at this time, because when they begun to harvest the 1892-93 crop they could not get credit, and consequently could not sell out in advance. Now they have the cotton outright and there is a good market for it.

The outlook in the South is very encouraging and money is now comparatively easy."

WORLD'S FAIR.

Parties contemplating visiting the World's Fair should take the Wabash line, making direct connection at Englewood Station with the electric street railway, landing passengers at the Sixth street entrance (Women's Building) and Sixty-fourth street entrance (Administration Building) fifteen minutes to one hour in advance of all other lines, and right in the vicinity of all the hotels near the World's Fair grounds. The Columbian Banner Train leaves St. Louis

Union Depot daily at 9 a. m., arriving at Englewood 4:45 p. m., Chicago 6:10 p. m.

The Columbian Banner Limited leaves St.

Louis at 8:30 p. m. daily, arriving at Englewood 7 a. m., Chicago 7:30 a. m. Baggage checked to Englewood and delivered by special transfer. Ticket offices, southeast corner Broadway and Olive street and Union

The Papal Ablegate in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 6.—Franciscus

Satelli, Papal Ablegate, is being driven about Milwaukee to-day. All the bishops of the province are in the party. Stops were made at the various convents and churches. Late this afternoon the ablegate will be given his excellent at the residence of Archbishop

Kater, and to-morrow morning he will celebrate mass at the Cathedral. The morning he leaves for De Pere in the private car of President Miller of the C. M. & St. P.

R. R. At De Pere to-day he will celebrate the pontifical mass.

AMERICA'S PREMIER BILLIARDISTS ARE MATCHED AT LAST.

THEY WILL PLAY FOURTEEN-INCH BALK

LINE FOR $2,500 A SIDE.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 6.—Jacob Schaefer and Frank C. Ives were matched to play at 14-inch balk line for $2,500 a side at a late hour last night. The match was the outgrowth of the claiming of the championship cup and title by Schaefer. While nothing definite has been decided upon, the men are to play five nights, 800 points each night, as soon as October at Central Music Hall can be secured.

Dick Roche finds the money for Schaefer, while Ives posts $2,500 of his own money.

Jacob Schaefer will to-day again become champion balk line player of the world and will receive the cup emblematic of the title, Frank Ives having defaulted under the rules and forfeited to the Wizard.

This is the result of the wrangle over a match in Paris in July of last year.

BALTIMORE PURE STRINGS.

They Are Always Unloosened for the Purchase of Good Players.

Ned Hanlon, since he has taken hold of the Baltimore Orioles, has managed to keep the well up in the race. That Baltimore appreciates a club that will fight shy of the tail and position is evident by the looseness of the manager's purse strings. Ned Hanlon

"The Count" Tony Mullane by the outlay of a pretty penny, and Frank Ward's release from Cincinnati was not in the nature of a gift either. The buying of Walter Brodie was a bold plan of financial war. Several clubs were spirited bidders in the auction.

The Baltimore club will not have reason to regret the stiff price they paid for him.

Hanlon's latest dicker was the signing of Bob Clark, an ex-spider who has been playing in Baltimore this season. He is a hard hitter and can travel in fast company.

THREE STRAIGHT TO BOSTON.

Arthur Clarkson had great difficulty in finding the home plate yesterday, and his erratic work cost the Browns a game after they had it well in hand. McCauley, an Eastern League catcher, put up a splendid game for the Browns, as did Ely and Quinn. Frank as usual led at the bat. The score, Boston 9,

St. Louis 2. Base hits—St. Louis 13, Boston 11.

Errors—Boston 2, St. Louis 4.

OF OWNERS AND TRAINERS IN RACING HIGH-CLASS HORSES.

Some races must be run from start to finish in fast time; others might be run with a steady slow pace and the first part of the race, with a finish at the topmost sped of the contestants.

James K. Keene is a true sportsman and nothing will cause him so much anger as the sight of a person abusing a horse. K. Harris is a jockey of ability, but he showed unfortunately in handling Mr. Keene's candelabra
